In this part of the Béarn where you enter, the Ossau Valley will surely appear to you as one of the most endearing if you leave to discover the variety of its landscapes and its heritage.

It is a resort of relaxation and rest.

Administrative and commercial center, Arudy has all the services and shops essential for a pleasant stay.

The traditional habitat of Ossau is adapted to a typical pastoral economy (cattle, sheep), articulated around the transhumance of summer towards the mountains, winter in the piedmont and the Aquitaine basin.

In Arudy we find these rural houses, next to urban dwellings, near the Church, houses of little nobles, artisans or merchants.

A country of marble quarries exploited since the Renaissance period, Arudy offers through its diversified urban architecture many examples demonstrating an undeniable taste and art of building, from the 15th century to the present day.
